

KEY POINTS – Creating Jobs & Growing the Economy

- The President has called for 2014 to be a "Year of Action," but so far all we've seen is more of the same weak and stagnant economic growth. Americans need jobs now.
- House Republicans have never lost our focus on creating jobs, putting people back to work, and growing the economy.
- The House has passed dozens of jobs bills that would help provide real solutions, but most of these remain stuck in the Democrat-run Senate.
- The President should work with Congress in areas of common ground so that we can improve education, lower energy costs, and help Americans take home more of their paychecks.
- This country works best when the American people have more opportunity, not more regulation.
- We must get Washington out of the way - whether at the doctor's office, in the job market, or at the gas pump – to build an America that works.
